Do you know this man?

This self portrait from 1931 was recently found in a trash can at a local animation studio. No one at the studio knew how the drawing got there and no one could identify him. Though few would know his name, and even fewer his face, nearly every person on earth knows of this man's work. This is Ub Iwerks, the man who created Mickey Mouse.

Animation Resources

We're a 501(c)(3) nonprofit group, dedicated to building the foundation for the future of animation!

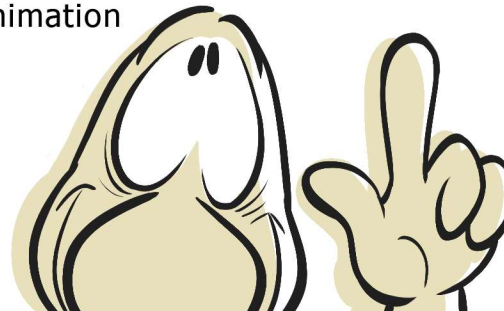

What does that mean?

It means every cent we raise goes to serve you and artists just like you! By helping us, you help yourself and the whole art form!

Goals

- To support and encourage animation education
- To support the preservation and critical evaluation of animation history
- To recognize the achievement of excellence in the art of animation
- To increase public awareness of independent animation artists
- To encourage the free and open exchange of ideas within the animation community
- To encourage journalism, documenting current trends and activities in animation
- To encourage the social interaction of professional and student artists
- To encourage the development and expression of all forms of animation

Projects

ANIMATION ARCHIVE

The archive database consists of thousands of biographies on great artists, rare animated films and more high-resolution images. All of these treasures are searchable by keyword and cross-linked within the database structure. It's a huge digital library just for cartoonists!

DISCORD COMMUNITY

Our active discussion community is available to anyone who wants to share their love of animation or get feed-back on their work. Come join the conversation!

PODCAST

We host regular artist discussions, lectures and debates on all topics concerning art and animation.
